'Tis the season for rejoicing and giving. We are grateful to the Lord for the opportunity to serve Him in this ministry for the past two decades now.

I (Steve) have been in pastoral ministry for the past decade and received my doctorate this year, but am not currently pastoring a local church.

During this season of life, by God's grace, we plan to:

- ⇒ Focus more on our health. My chemo port has been removed and I see one of my four cancer doctors quarterly. My reports have been good.
- ⇒ Help my mother as much as we can.
- ⇒ Minimize belongings accumulated over the years, including lots of music.
- ⇒ Advance the broadcast ministry, to include:
 - Continuing the live daily radio show Morning Praise (M-F 8:05-10:30 a.m.)
 - Making Morning Praise available on additional platforms as a podcast.
 - Beginning a short podcast, Daily Manna, to also be on Facebook Live.
 - Airing Steve's sermons and making them available also as a podcast.
- ⇒ Develop writing, including for the purpose of teaching seminary courses.

With the change in our ministry, we will need to make up the income gap. We have already begun to sell things. We sold our two Hondas and downsized to 2003 and 2004 vehicles which were previously owned by my mother and my uncle (siblings), so we are keeping them in the family. We have sold golf club sets, music items, and books, but have a long way to go, and our main avenue is our new eBay store.

The cost to operate a broadcast ministry is substantial. The utility costs alone are nearly $5,000 annually, and we have other costs as well, such as FCC fees, equipment needs, engineers, website & streaming, and more. Please pray to see if you could partner with us in this outreach ministry. Thank you!
